Introduction

Get your daily dose of physical activity and fresh air by visiting one of the many trails Ireland has to offer. In volume two of 100 Irish trails, we continue to look at walking trails from the National Trails Register.

Detailed within the pages of this booklet, you will find information on trails with varying grades, lengths and formats. From forest loops to walks along the coast, these trails showcase some of Ireland's most outstanding landscapes with something for everyone to enjoy.

Definition of grades can be found on page two of this booklet. Consider your fitness level when choosing a trail and remember to bring appropriate clothing for the weather conditions.

For more information on these trails and to discover more trails in Ireland, please visit the Sport Ireland Outdoors page on the Sport Ireland website.

We all enjoy the outdoors in different ways. Pay attention, expect to encounter others and be courteous. Park safely, keeping access open for landowners and remember to bring all waste home with you. Let's make sure that our trails can be enjoyed by all.

Exercise and recreational activities are things that dogs, and their owners share and enjoy together.

By knowing where you can bring your dog (as not all trails allow this due to livestock) and using a lead, you are keeping people, dogs, livestock and wildlife safe.

For more information on responsibility in the outdoors visit www.leavenotraceireland.org. #LoveThisPlace #LeaveNoTrace

Don't forget to use #Outdoorsforeveryone for any photos you are posting on social media. Please make sure to follow the latest Government advice around Covid-19.

Finally, my message for everyone is to enjoy the Outdoors and Leave No Trace of your visit by taking care of the environment.

Enjoy the outdoors,
John Treacy

Trim Porch Field Family / Buggy Friendly Walk

This tranquil trail, situated in a large area of parkland in Trim town, follows a surfaced path, initially along the River Boyne in both the western and eastern sections of the open parkland and then around the edge of the eastern section before returning along the river, passing historical sites with details on interpretative panels. The parkland was an area of medieval farmland between the old town wall and Sheep Gate to the west and the 13th century town of Newtown to the east with its large medieval cathedral, two monasteries and small church dating from 1206. Views of the surrounding area are wide-ranging. Three other trails start at the trailhead.

Mote Park Bluebell Loop

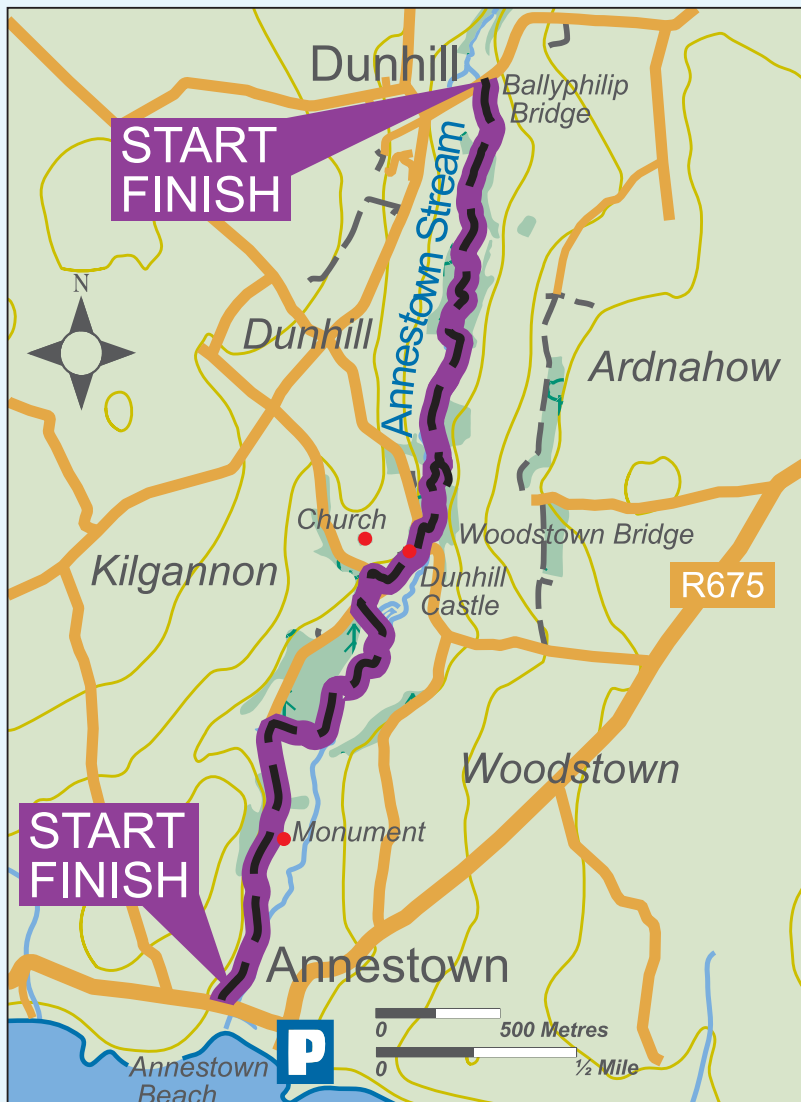

This short loop brings the walker on path and forest road through a mature plantation of Norway spruce and a replanted felled area made up of Scots pine and oak. Also present are naturally regenerated holly, ash and sally, and of course, as the name of the trail suggests, carpets of bluebell are on view in April and May. Wildlife in the area includes red squirrels and the elusive pine marten. Mote Park was once the seat of the Crofton Family and is widely known for its forests which provide habitats for many species of wildlife, both common and rare. There are three other trails at this trailhead.

County: Roscommon

Anne Valley Walk

This walk follows the Anne River as it meanders through a protected area of forest and marshland on its way to the coast at Annestown. The walker is brought on a specially constructed gravel path which stays close to the river for most of its journey, passing many beautiful ponds which are home to a wide variety of flora and fauna and include an amazing range of protected species. If you are lucky you may see some of them including birds such as heron and kingfisher and you might even be treated to a glimpse of an otter. There are fine views throughout with a most awe-inspiring sight of Dunhill Castle.

Ballyconnell Canal Loop

Starting from the bridge in the middle of the town of Ballyconnell, this trail takes the walker on riverbank paths, woodland tracks, and sandy roadways as it explores a very pleasant river walk along the bank of the Woodford River, part of a canal linking the Shannon and Erne Rivers, and into the lovely Annagh Lough Woods, a natural deciduous woodland mainly of oak, ash and beech trees which is also a wildlife reserve and was once part of the old Ballyconnell Estate. While in the Woods the walker is brought close to the edge of Annagh Lough. The area is overlooked by Slieve Russell (also called Slieve Rushen) Mountain.

Killeshandra Loop

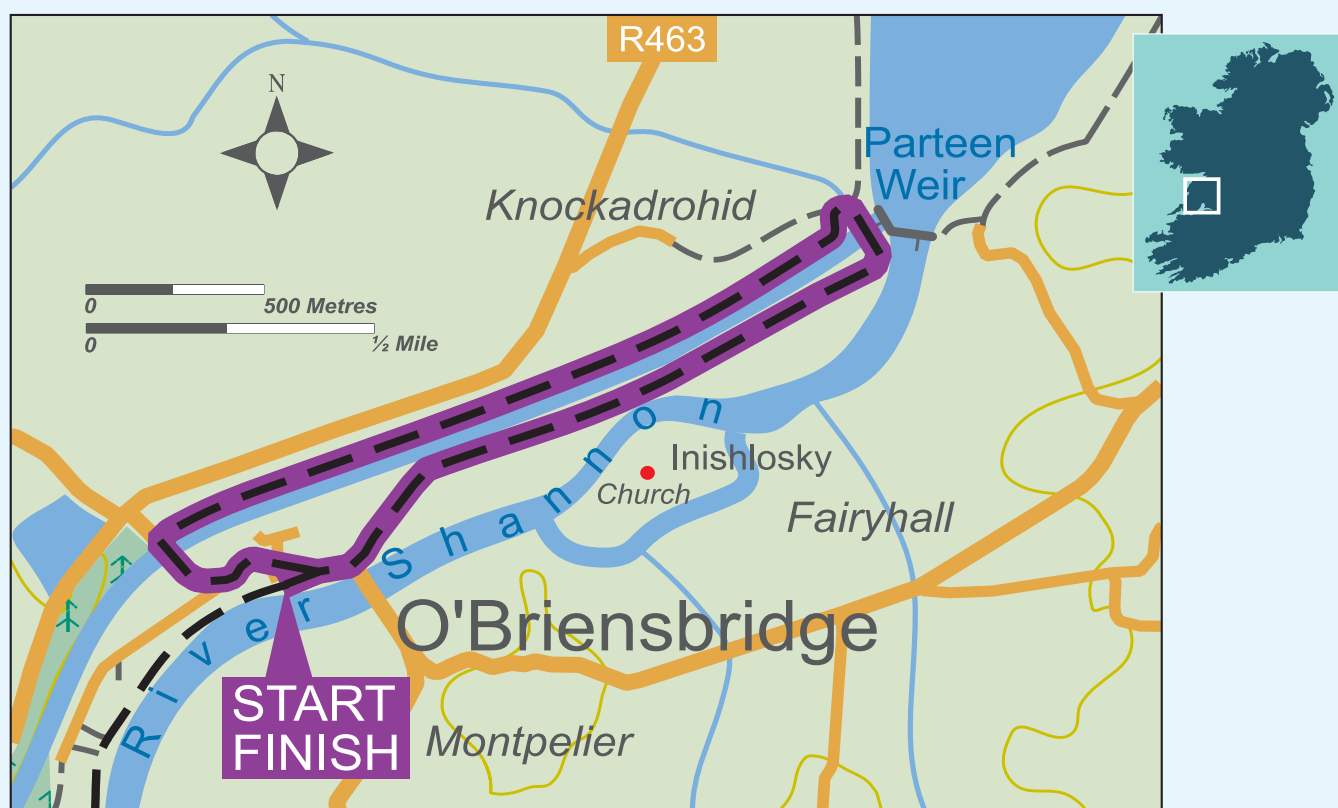

The village of Killeshandra is set in the middle of unspoilt countryside: green fields, forests, and rivers with half a dozen of Cavan's famous lakes encircling it. This peaceful walk takes advantage of these, threading its way on lakeshore paths along the shores of Town Lough and Pleasure Lake (with walkovers at water courses), on forestry roads through a mixed woodland of broadleaf and coniferous trees with bluebells, wood anemone, primrose, and violet among the plants on the forest floor, on sandy roadway, grassy paths, and minor road through a lovely low-lying lake rich landscape, finishing through the village main street. The area is part of the Marble Arch Caves Global Geopark.

O'Briensbridge — Parteen Weir

This loop takes the walker along a towpath on the bank of the River Shannon as far as the striking structure of the Parteen Weir Hydro Dam, returning along the track at the base of the Ardnacrusha Headrace Canal embankment. Apart from the climb up the road to join the embankment and descent off it, this is a level walk on grassy and riverside path with firm durable surfaces. It is a very pleasant countryside walk although some of the riverbank may be wet. There are two fish ladders so that returning fish, such as salmon, can climb the river safely past the power station. Two other trails start at this trailhead.

Mealagh Woods Loop

This is a great trail for family walks as it takes the walker on paths meandering through pleasant woodland and follows the bank of the Mealagh River, crossing the river by footbridges at two points. The ancient Barnagowlanes Wedge Tomb is not far from the trail and an access path off the main loop will bring you by it, however this path can be slightly boggy. During heavy rain, and for a short while after, the area around the river can flood. If the ground is flooded please do not attempt to complete the route but return the way you came. If you are lucky you may see otters along the river.

Muckish Lub Loch na Boll

In the shadow of Muckish Mountain, this pleasant walk is located in a remote area of outstanding natural beauty at Bun na Mucaise. It follows a quiet road, bog track and open ground through bogland contained within a wild mountain landscape overlooking the lake, with points of interest and an information board detailing its original use as a working railway. Although the walk is short it provides a good atmospheric flavour of the vast walking potential of the area and is suitable for all the family. Views are varied, of sea, forest park, Lough na Boll and mountain. There are two other looped walks and a longer linear one at this trailhead.

Marconi Loop

This walk, in a rugged and wild landscape and area of outstanding natural beauty within the Derrigimlagh bog complex, follows a roadway and gravel tracks with small sections of boardwalk. You will walk through sensitive areas, as it passes through the Industrial Heritage site of the first commercial wireless radio station, also the landing site for the first nonstop transatlantic flight, whose stories are explained with various interpretive elements. This is also the site of the Wild Atlantic Signature Point of Derrigimlagh. The walk includes natural heritage and has fine views of lakes, mountains, sea and Roundstone bog (a special area of conservation with its unique flora and fauna and a multitude of lakes).

Caher Marsh Loop

Situated on the shore of Castlemaine Harbour where the River Main flows into the harbour, this family friendly walk follows quiet country road, tracks and a harbour levee along the shore and is ideal for birdwatchers. Castlemaine Harbour is a national nature reserve and also a Special Area of Conservation, a Special Protected Area and a Ramsar site. Sanderlings, oystercatchers, red-throated divers and greenshanks are among the birds recorded. The walker can enjoy superb views of the surrounding area, including Castlemaine Harbour itself, the Slieve Mish Mountains to the north and the McGillicuddy Reeks on the Iveragh Peninsula across the Harbour. The endangered natterjack toad is found in the area.

Moore Abbey Woods - Count John McCormack Way

Wander on forest road around this fine broadleaf and conifer woodland of beech, ash, oak, Norway spruce and Douglas fir and you might see grey squirrel, badger, pheasant and numerous species of bird along the way. It is also home to a variety of wildflowers and butterflies, including the pearl-bordered fritillary. Bluebells abound in spring and there are great views of Mooreabbey House, on the site of a 5th century monastery, re-founded Cistercian before the abbey and manor were owned by Edward Moore, hence the name Mooreabbey, while the trail is named after the famous Irish tenor who lived here for a number of years. Tullahought — Kilmacoliver Loop

This is a very attractive and varied walk which brings you on laneways, woodland trails, sandy tracks and through fields. It takes the walker to the top of Kilmacoliver Hill, which dominates the landscape, before descending through a pleasant young broadleaf woodland of oak, beech, birch, larch, ash and cherry. Take time to enjoy the vista from the summit where there are extensive views over the Kilkenny countryside and Counties Tipperary, Waterford, Carlow and Wexford as well as the substantial hill of Carrigadoon Hill in front of you. The area is well known for high quality quarried slate which is similar to Welsh slate in colour and lightness.

Clare Lake Loop Walk / Land of the Giants

This trail of two parts on the south side of Claremorris, follows gravel path and track throughout as it circles Clare Lake and passes through forestry and open ground bringing the walker into a magic wonderland of giant features, such as a huge chair, an enormous wellington boot, a huge guitar and many more. This marvellous amenity and tranquil place was lovingly created by local people. You can experience the sweet scent of rhododendron and lilac, the soothing sound of gurgling water in a little brook along with dappling sunlight and tree shadow, possibly spotting several species of wild birds and animals as well as seeing ducks on the lake.

Blanemore Forest Walk

County: Mayo

Trail grade: Easy

Length (km): 5

Estimated time: 1h 30m

Dogs allowed: Yes

Nearest town: Moygownagh

Start point: Blanemore Forest Entrance

Waymarked? Yes

Also known as Blanemore Forest Archaeological Walk, this trail circles Lough Naweela following forest roads and raised boardwalk and is partly on raised bog. It brings the walker through an area of rich cultural significance, passing many features and some fine sites of archaeological importance including two court tombs and a standing stone all clearly interpreted on strategically located information boards. Scenic views of the surrounding landscape are also on offer.

Clara Esker Ballinough Doorey Loop

This trail is mainly on forest gravel track, grassy track, boardwalk, and a small section of tarmac road. It takes the walker on NPWS managed land across bog and through beautiful deciduous woodland of native trees including oak (the oldest estimated to be 400-500 years), ash, hazel, hawthorn and blackthorn with bluebells, dog violet and wild garlic carpeting the floor of the wood in spring, while plants like aron's road (great mullein) grow on some of the most spectacular eskers in Europe, with splendid views from Rabbit Hill of Croghan Hill, Charleville Castle and the Slieve Bloom Mountains while pre-famine ruins are visible along the route. One other trail starts at this trailhead.

This beautiful and very appealing walk is located on the south-eastern corner of Gorumna Island in the Connemara Gaeltacht. The walker is taken on coastal paths, which hug the coastline and visit a secluded inlet with a quay at An Caisleán, as well as small quiet winding country roads, one of which passes close to Loch Hibirt, along with lanes between characteristic West-of-Ireland stone walls passing by rocky fields. You are treated to extensive stunning views of the Maamturk and 12 Bens Mountains, Aran Islands, varying seascapes and the unique surrounding countryside which includes coral beaches and fields. In summer time you can see bright orange clumps of montbretia.

Freshford Loop

This attractive walk in north County

Kilkenny takes the walker along the bank of the River Nuenna, on woodland track, laneway, quiet minor road and field in a rolling landscape of pleasant pastoral and sylvan vistas around the village. You pass the site of an old mill on the outskirts of the village, go through the deciduous Brown's Wood with the trail finishing through a 'tunnel' of trees. Just off the trail in the village the Romanesque doorway in St Lachtain's Church of Ireland church is one of only two in Ireland.

This walk takes you through a diverse landscape of old woodland in Sopwell Woodlands (Coill na Lathach), on an old bog road, sheltered breen and forest path network, passing through the townlands of Lahile (An Leathchoill) and Loughaun (an Lochán). A footbridge over the Silver Stream brings the walker into Scohaboy Bog LIFE site, an SAC and home to a unique tapestry of peatland life on an award-winning raised bog restoration project. The walk crosses the restoration area on a 1000m bog-bridge with the option of taking a spur to a viewing platform for expansive views south over high bog to low lying hills with a high point of Keeper Hill (Sliabh Coimeálta).

Kiltealy Ballycrystal Trail

This walk through forest in a valley under Mount Leinster, with its television transmitter on top, is divided in two by a minor road and takes the walker mostly on forest roadways. Passing through this peaceful countryside, where the silence is broken only by the wind in the tree tops or the cries of animals and birds, you are offered a tranquil escape with restful breaks at bubbling streams, the chance to hear birdsong, see deer, rabbits, foxes and hares, while birds of prey hunt the valley, fragrant pine scents the air and foxgloves and many mountain grasses surround. A spur to a viewing point gives fine views towards the Blackstairs Mountains.

Mount Nebo Trail

This walk brings you on a woodland trail winding uphill to a Fairy Wood (also your descent) which leads onto the higher part of the walk on open forest road circling around the upper slopes of Mount Nebo and Slievebaun. This part of the walk passes an old moated site – said to date from Norman settlement times – and you have the opportunity to rest on benches at four locations. Flora includes the yellow and purple mixture of gorse and heather. The area has historical links to the Irish republican women’s paramilitary organisation, Cumann na mBan. You are treated to scenic views across the surrounding countryside, particularly on the descent.

Pub

Waymarked? Yes

This trail is located opposite Ireland's official highest pub on the Kerry/Cork border at an area called Top of the Coom overlooking the two beautiful valleys of Glanlee to the east and Muscraí to the west in an area of great natural beauty. Completely off road, the walker starts gently through a working sheep farm before a moderate pull up the hill on an old turf road and following it back down. From the highest point of the walk, in an unexpected quietness, you are surrounded by mountain ranges with unlimited stunning views. Keep an eye out for flora and fauna including the possibility of seeing the white tailed eagle.

Cullahill Heathy Way Loop Walk

This walk brings the walker on field paths, woodland tracks, old quiet lanes and minor roadways on the slopes of Cullahill Mountain. Cullahill Mountain is a Special Area of Conservation as its grassland has a large population of the rare green-winged orchid and is also home to other varieties including frog, bee and early purple. One other trail starts at this trailhead.
